Ike Unhappy as GOPs Hold Down Restoration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was pictured today as "not happy" that House Republican leaders are battling to restore only about 350 million dollars of a 2½-billion-dollar cut in new defense appropriations.

GOP Leader Martin (Mass.) so described Eisenhower's attitude after he and other Republican congressional leaders had their regular weekly meeting with the President.

Martin was asked whether Eisenhower was satisfied with the House Republican Policy Committee's decision to try for restoration of about 350 million dollars of the cut.

"No he is not happy. He thinks we should have at least $1,200,000,000," Martin said.

"But we have got to face realities—and the fact that we have a strong Democratic House," he said. "Proposed amendments, as announced by the Policy Committee yesterday, figured to a bid to put back into the pending appropriation bill about 323 million dollars cut out by the House Appropriations Committee."

But Martin used the figure 350 millions. When asked about that, he said he was speaking in round numbers.

Martin talked with newsmen at the White House. Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California, who was with him, said the administration's hope is that if the House restores about 350 million dollars, the Senate when it acts on the bill will put back "substantially more."

Knowland added, however, that in the Senate there are "some practical problems facing us." Knowland, who has called for trimming the administration's overall $71,800,000,000 budget by about three billion dollars, alluded to the strong economy tide running in Congress this year.

"Asked whether he personally is for restoring the $1,200,000,000 the President wants, Knowland said he already is on record as favoring restoration of "any part of the $1,200,000,000 that relates to the muscle and strength of the armed forces."

"I don't want to see our defense weakened in the field of military hardware," he added.

Knowland referred to what he called "delicate" disarmament negotiations now going on with Russia.

"This is no time to indicate weakness in the face of the Soviet Union," he said.

The GOP Policy Committee, composed of 30 of the party's top House members, agreed yesterday to back amendments adding the 323 million dollars. Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts predicted the drive would succeed if the party chiefs could woo some Democrats to their cause.

The amendments would give the Army an extra 98 million dollars, the Navy an extra 50 millions and the Air Force an additional 175 millions.

Some Republicans, Martin said, favored bigger increases while others wanted smaller restorations. He predicted that post, but not all, Republicans in the House would support the Policy Committee's position.

J. W. Griffin, 71, Lifelong County Resident, Dies

W. Meyer Jr. all of Hope, three sisters, Mrs. Cecil Hick of Stamps, Mrs. Eula Harrison of Prescott and Mrs. Alice McCain of Boston.

Funeral services will be held at the Columbus Methodist Church at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Arrangements are in charge of Herndon-Cornelius.

Promotion Planned Here

SPECIAL promotion committee of the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce, (left to right) Harrell Collier, Harrell Hall, W. H. Gunter Jr., A. I. Heflin Jr. and Henry Haynes (absent when picture was made) have completed plans for the second or four city wide promotions that are planned by the group for 1957.

The first one for this year was the Washington's Birthday promotion on February 22. This one will be known as Shoppertunity Days and will run for three days, May 30 and 31 and June 1, instead of the usual one-day affair.

As has been the custom the participating merchants will offer some outstanding values during this promotion, listing these bargains in the Star and over the radio station. It will be a big Shoppertunity to save.

Berserk Sailor Kills an Officers, Holds Hostages

By GLENN STACKHOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A sailor court martialized for stealing a watch, went berserk today aboard ship, killing an officer, wounding two other men and then holding off capture by taking four hostages.

At mid-morning, nearly four hours after his bloody spree, the sailor still eluded captures. However, all but one of his four hostages had escaped unharmed.

Armed with a .45 caliber pistol, he held the fourth captive high on the flying bridge of the USS Uvalde, tied up at Treasure Island Naval station in the arms of San Francisco Bay.

Identified only as Jimmie Henderson, he was a third class diving clerk until his special court martial yesterday for the theft of a watch from a sailor who was taking a shower.

The dead officer was his division officer and apparently the one who preferred the charges which resulted in Henderson being busted to a seaman and sentenced to four months in the brig.

Henderson was still free pending review of his sentence by higher authorities. His status was "prisoner at large" and he had the freedom of the ship.

The pirates scene was reminiscent of a battle ground.

Two armed sailors watched the sailor from the bow crow's nest. Another, also armed with a rifle, stood guard on an aft cargo boom.

Many Roads Still Closed by Floods

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State police today listed the following Arkansas highways closed because of high water:

67W at North Little Rock, 36 east of Kensett, 117 from Smithville to Plough keepee.

21 from Lynn to Strawberry, 14 from Newport to Batesville.

19 from Prescott to Delight, 55 north of Morrilton, 60 and 113 at Bigelow.

64 at the Fort Smith bridge and between Ozark and Russellville.

167 at Fourche Creek bridge near Little Rock.

Army Engaged in New Maneuver-Atomic War

By HAL BOYLE

FT. RILEY, Kan. (UP)—Here on vast rolling plains where it trained some of its greatest military heroes, the U. S. Army is engaging in mock battles of a new kind of war — atomic war.

The experiments going on here would amaze some of those past cavalry heroes — Jeb Stuart, George Custard, George Patton and Jonathan Wainwright.

The experiments are also a bit confusing to some of the present heroes here — infantrymen, tankmen and artillerymen trying to puzzle out the role of ground forces on an atomic battlefield.

As one officer put it: "No one ever really fought on an atomic battlefield. We have to feel our way."

But enthusiasm and morale are high among the soldiers of the U. S. 1st Infantry Division. "The Big Red One," which was picked to lead the Army's new peacetime organization.

The division, now led by Maj. Gen. David H. Buchanan of Marion, Va., an officer with a fine combat and staff record, still has on its rolls 26 veterans from the action 43 days and took more than 100,000 prisoners.

Youth Robbed of School's Cash

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Harry Finan was robbed of $907 entrusted to him by the St. Rose of Lima Parochial School yesterday, police reported.

Police said the boy was carrying the money to the bank in a cigar box when an older boy knocked him down and grabbed the box. The money was mostly from a student collection for an excursion to the Bronx Zoo.

Reading Club Theme 'World Traveler'

"World Traveler" will be the theme of the Reading Club at the Hempstead County Library this summer.

Children who will be in the fourth grade next year and above will be eligible to join the club June first.

Each member will be given a "suitcase" on which he will place a sticker for each book read. The sticker will bear the name of a different country of the world. The books read do not necessarily have to be about another country.

Also, each member will be given a booklet in which he will keep a record of the books he has read.

The reading club will close July 31st. The "suitcase" and the booklets will be given to the members at the beginning of school in the fall.

Arkansas River Crests; Flood Aid Is Sought

By The Associated Press

The swollen Arkansas River crested at 38.4 feet at Van Buren last midnight, and today a second consecutive day of clear weather led to hope that maybe the worst of the current flood is over.

A spokesman for the U. S. Engineers at Little Rock said he was confident that a threatened levee on the Arkansas River near Dardanelle would hold.

A small private levee at Holla Bend near Dardanelle was topped yesterday and a comparatively small tract of about 1,200 acres flooded.

This added only slightly to the thousands of acres already inundated in the state by overflowing streams, backwater and heavy rains.

After reaching its Van Buren peak — 34.4 feet over flood stage — the Arkansas began to fall slowly in the Van Buren-Fort Smith area. It had dropped by one-tenth of a foot within seven hours after the crest was recorded.

The Engineer spokesman said "if we don't have more rain, we think we have this thing licked."

U. S. Highway 64 between Russellville and Ozark was added to day to the list of roads closed by rising water. The highway, which parallels the Arkansas River, is the most heavily traveled route between Little Rock and Fort Smith. It already had been closed at the Fort Smith bridge over the Arkansas.

Three persons died yesterday in the swift waters of the Arkansas and Mississippi.

Gov. Orval Faubus announced at Little Rock yesterday he would ask President Eisenhower for aid under Public Law 487, which permits grants for flood damage repairs after local funds have been exhausted.

Faubus said he would also request that the soil bank be reopened for applications from farmers whose crops have been flooded. The deadline for the program already has passed.

This step would be of major benefit to northeast Arkansas where water from swollen drainage ditches has spilled over thousands of acres.

State Civil Defense Director Owen Payne Jr. estimated that about 14 counties would be involved in the federal grants request. Faubus Payne and a regional CD official from Texas conferred at Little Rock yesterday.

On the evacuation front, all was quiet yesterday. Earlier this week nearly 1,000 persons — including the entire population of Moffett, Okla. — were forced from their homes by the Arkansas.

Planting Still at Standstill in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas farmers accomplished little field work last week, except in the southeast portion, the Crop Reporting Service said today.

The agency's weekly summary said heavy rains and high water came when needed for making hay and cultivating row crops.

Some replanting of cotton may be necessary in the northeast where considerable acreage is under water.

Much early planted cotton and corn is badly in need of cultivation.

Grain hay harvest is underway as weather permits. Some farmers tried to make hay between showers, but much was badly damaged and some lost entirely.

Planting of rice and soybeans was almost at a standstill last week.

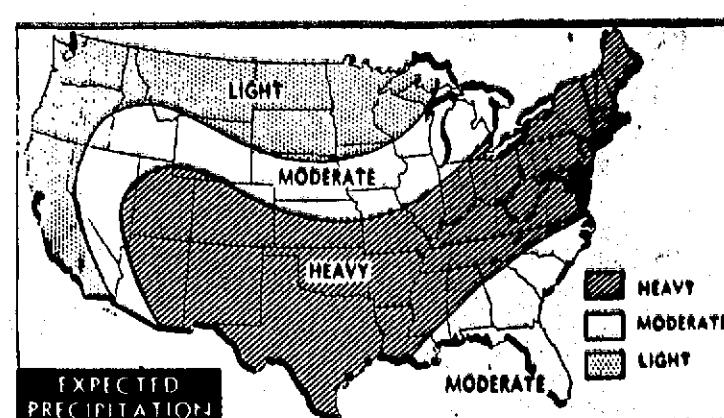

Spring freezes and excess rain have lowered the yield prospect of fall sown small grains in most areas.

Rains have reduced both the quantity and quality of the state's strawberry crop and the price has dropped to low that some ripened berries were left on the vines.

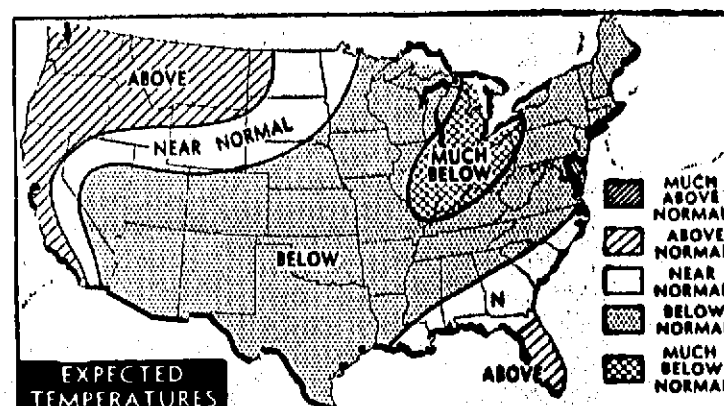

Nephew of Local Resident Dies

Clarence Lane of Broken Bow, Oklahoma, nephew of Mrs. Roberta Glibert died Monday morning in a Texarkana hospital.

Funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at Broken Bow. He is survived by many relatives here.

From now until mid-June, rainfall is expected to equal or exceed normal over most areas, except for subnormal amounts along the West Coast and in the northern tier of states westward from the Great Lakes.

Temperatures are expected to average below seasonal normals over most of the nation until mid-June, except for above normal in the Northwest and extreme Southeast.

Ike Prods for $71 Billion Spending Plan

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has passed word to Cabinet members and other top government officials to bent the drums at every opportunity for the administration's $71,800,000,000 spending program.

They already are pounding away with zest, and a White Official says, "You haven't seen anything yet."

How much good it will do toward changing the mood of an economy-minded Congress remains to be seen. But Eisenhower aides contend the budget-cutting tide is already slacking, at least for the time being.

Eisenhower repeatedly is determined how to hammer at the idea that the Republican party is committed in its 1956 platform to support the kind of program which his critics some of them within the party — say will cost too much.

The approach involves an appeal to Republicans in Congress to close ranks behind the President and then direct fire at the Democrats, who control both the Senate and House, if the Eisenhower budget and legislative program founder.

The President set the tone in his two nationwide television-radio speeches in defense of his spending program, and — on the political front — in a series of telephoned messages to regional GOP rallies held around the country.

"And I would imagine that every time the President talks from now until Congress adjourns you will find him talking about some section of the budget or about his legislative program," says White House press secretary James C. Hagerty.

As for enlisting the help of key administration officials, the latest example came late yesterday after Postmaster General Summerfield and assistant department's Civilian Advisory Board had conferred with Eisenhower.

At a White House news conference, Summerfield said Eisenhower was in full agreement with him and the advisory board that mail service will have to be curtailed drastically starting July 1 unless Congress comes through with more money. He put the figure at 140 million dollars.

A few minutes later Eisenhower followed up on his own in signing an appropriation bill carrying $3,192,000,000 for the Post Office Department for the new fiscal year.

He said in a statement that additional funds are needed to avert substantial reduction of postal service, and added he wants the people "to continue to receive the postal service to which they are entitled."

Senate Starts Voting Today on Housing

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate starts voting today on the omnibus 1957 housing bill with both Democrats and Republicans predicting a compromise measure will result.

Some Republicans and a few Democrats planned to join in an effort to cut the $2,850,000,000 total down to the $1,025,000,000 asked by President Eisenhower in his fiscal 1958 budget for housing.

By this move, sponsored by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) and backed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), appeared likely to be stalled by a bipartisan compromise drive.

Under the proposed compromise the bill sent to the floor by the Banking Committee would be cut back in some respects, liberalized in others.

Leaders hoped to get the bill passed by the Senate tonight and into conference with the House, which already has acted on its version of the annual housing legislation.

Relief From Flood Seen in 3 States

DALLAS (AP)—Cloudbursts dumped up to 3 inches of rain on scattered parts of Texas yesterday, but major flooding appeared to be subsiding in many sections of the Southwest.

Thousands of persons remained homeless, however, in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas as rivers and streams continued to overflow or run near bankfull from earlier torrential rains.

Some of the 2,100 persons driven out by the flooding Trinity River in Dallas hoped to return to their homes today. In nearby Fort Worth where 4,000 fled the surging river during the weekend, water began receding in all areas.

The flood victims were not expected to be able to return before the end of the week, however. The river was receding slowly.

The Arkansas River continued to cause damage. Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas said he would appeal for federal aid.

The Arkansas spilled over low-lying farms from Fort Smith 150 miles eastward to Little Rock. Crest forecasts were revised upward a foot or two. Civil defense estimated 1,000 persons have been evacuated, mainly in North Little Rock and including the 400 persons comprising the population of Moffett, Okla., just across the river from Fort Smith.

Flash flooding hit sections of south Texas after the torrential rains yesterday. Hundreds were chased from their homes at San Antonio temporarily when nearly 4 inches of rain set creeks spilling out of their banks. Roads were closed for an hour on all approaches to the city.

To Test Atom Weapons Underground

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission official said today the commission is working on a plan to test some atomic weapons underground. This would eliminate radioactive fall-out.

Gordon M. Dunning of AEC's division of biology and medicine said that one of several plans for putting down the fall-out danger from weapons tests is to try "detonating" nuclear devices so far underground that all of the radioactive material will remain captured.

Dunning spoke about AEC plans in testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee. The group is studying fall-out, the dropping back of radioactive substances hurled into the air by nuclear explosions.

Higher towers and balloons are being used in the current series of test explosions in Nevada, Dunning said. Other witnesses have testified that in general, nuclear explosions produce less fall-out the higher above the earth they occur.

Dunning said that the "more than 57" test explosions conducted by the United States between 1951 and the current series resulted in four instances of damage away from the test sites.

He listed them as the fall-out on the inhabitants of some of the Marshall Islands in March 1954; fall-out on some Japanese fishermen; a blast wave starting on U.S. testing grounds that caused minor structural damage for which about $25,000 had been paid in claims; and fall-out that buried some horses and cattle 20 miles away.

Dunning also told the subcommittee about the behavior of strontium 90, a radioactive substance that tends to seek out human and animal bone and may cause cancerous tumors if concentrated.

He said an H-bomb produces at first krypton 90, a radioactive gas which quickly decays into strontium 90. During its brief life, the said, the krypton 90 rushes into the stratosphere and much of the strontium 90 forms there. Thus, Dunning continued, it does not mix with the particles in the lower air which fall to earth within a few hundred miles downwind of the explosion. Instead, he explained, it spreads through the stratosphere eventually covering the whole

U. S. Plans to Shoot About 6 Satellites

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to shoot up six satellites during the International Geophysical Year. Each will be soaked to seek out specific new facts about things in space that affect the way we live.

The first one has a window to look at the sun, and microphones to hear the "count" thousands of meteors the size of dust specks. On "horribly bigger, puncturing ones to endanger future space travelers."

Instructions for this first satellite are about perfected, a visit to the Naval Research Laboratory shows. Here the complete satellite balls are being assembled.

Congress has granted 39 million dollars so far for the U. S. part of the studies. About half is going for satellites.

The "Department of Defense" is in charge of developing and shooting the rockets to raise the moon, this involves indirect costs for "Navy, Air Force and Army Universities also are spending funds designing map satellite instruments.

Even if the total satellite cost were $1 million, that still figures in a nickel-a-citizen for each satellite, or 30 cents for the set of six.

So far, four different groups of experiments are planned explains Dr. Homer E. Newell Jr., science program coordinator for Project Vanguard.

Group 1: Experiments will study waves from the sun, meteors, density of air in space, temperatures and pressures there, and shape of the earth.

Group 2: Cosmic rays and meteors.

Group 3: Magnetic fields around the earth, and air density.

Group 4: How much energy and heat come into and from the earth, or else a study of clouds over the earth to aid in weather predictions. Which study will be chosen is yet undecided.

Due to weight limits, each satellite can be rigged only for one group of studies. If the first shot fails, an identical moon will be fired again. If that fails, the third shot will be rigged for Group 2 experiments, and so on.

The Group 1 satellite will have a special window in its shell to look at the sun. It will measure and report the intensity of a particular kind of ultraviolet or sun-ray which are all soaked up by our own thick atmosphere and never reach the earth.

These rays exert a controlling influence on long-range radio communications on earth, and probably to climate trends too. They might be pretty lethal to space travelers.

Space is full of tiny meteors. One estimate is that 1,000 tons of dusty from "shooting stars" falls on earth daily. The dust perhaps helps ionize or electrify our upper air, could provide seeds for raindrop formation.

Four microphones inside the first moon will count these hits, broadcasting the interstellar score back to earth. Tiny ones won't puncture the shell. Two gas chambers in the moon will indicate and meteors that do "puncture" the shell.

Temperatures inside the outside the moon will be measured and reported. The moon will also tell about air density and shape of the earth.

The Group 2 moon will have different gizzards, rigged to count how many cosmic rays it runs into, and where. It will store the cosmic ray count in a miniature tape recorder, and broadcast the knowledge when it passes over strategically located receiving stations on the earth below.

L. R. College to Be 4-Year School

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Junior College will become a 4-year institution next fall and its name will be changed to Little Rock University.

The board of trustees made the announcement Saturday. It said a third year curriculum will be added next September and a fourth year curriculum the following September.

Little Rock University will include the School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business and the School of Education.

Dr. Carey V. Stahler, president, said the 4-year college will be eligible to apply in 1959 for accreditation to the North Central Association.

The first circulating library in the U. S. was organized in 1731 in Philadelphia. Benjamin Franklin was a customer.

New Cotton Plan Will Be Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Southern members of Congress plan to offer shortly a new program for cotton production, the basis of which is a domestic allotment plan.

Under legislation planned by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) and Rep. Whitten (D-Miss.), acreage allotments would be abandoned and a farmer could grow all the cotton he desired.

The cotton would move into trade channels at the world price except that a farmer would get a higher price for his share of the crop used by domestic processors. If effect, it would be a two price plan.

The Whitten-Russell bill would bring synthetic fibers similar to cotton under the program. Manufacturers using synthetics would have to purchase certificates from the Community Credit Corporation at a price which would preserve the present price differential between the two.

Processors thus would have to have certificates covering all cotton and synthetics used in making textiles for domestic markets.

For export goods they could purchase uncertificated cotton and synthetics at the lower world prices.

Importers would have to buy certificates on cotton imports so as to bring those articles up to domestic prices.

Price support for the domestic quota would be provided through loans. The supports would be the world price plus the amount added for the higher cost for American production. This total amount would be equal to 160 per cent of parity.

Whitten has been working on such a plan for several months, contending that the present bank system does not work, that its effect is to pay farmers for not farming.

He has described acreage controls as unsatisfactory to the farming industry.

The first commercial radio broadcast was made in 1922.

Precipitation Over Nation Widespread

By The Associated Press

Wide areas of precipitation were reported during the night and early morning across the country. Isolated thunderstorms and showers hit sections from eastern New Mexico and Texas northward into the Dakotas. Heavy east amounts were in areas from western Nebraska southward through the Texas Panhandle.

Light showers sprinkled sections of New England and scattered thundershowers fell along the Atlantic outboard into Florida. Isolated showers fell into the West, light showers fell in central sections of California.

Showers and thundershowers were expected to continue during the day from Texas northward into the Dakotas and into the northern and central Rockies.

But generally clear skies were indicated in other areas.

aid Col. William O. Cunningham III, who once commanded the 18th Regiment and is now division chief of staff.

Recently a public demonstration of the new tactics was put on before a group of impressed Kansas editors by troops commanded by Col. Howard B. St. Clair of Beckley, W. Va. The visitors were flown to the scene in helicopters, which seem to have taken over many of the jeep's roles in the new army.

A sudden cloud suddenly mushroomed from a small hill, symbolizing an atomic explosion launched against the entrenched enemy. After a heavy bombardment by artillery and mortar shells, the scattered tanks and Doughboys began to converge on the objective.

Flickers of red flame flared in the distance. Under the immemorial sun, sweating tiny figures of men moved forward in the immemorial way of infantry — running in a crouch, falling, rising, running again — little dots of purpose on the immense uncarving earth.

In half an hour a signal flare streaked a wavering signal of colored smoke up from the green and brown hill — the most welcome news in war: "Objective taken!" Will the new pentomic organization work so well if there should come a real war again? No one can tell. Today everything is experimental.

But Capt. Bob Rollier of Lake Placid, N. Y., one of the most decorated soldiers of the last war, said soberly: "We are training under both old and new conditions — attacks in which we used atomic shells and attacks in which we don't."

"We do know that we have greater mobility now, and that we can hit harder with fewer men than we ever did before. And the men are excited and proud because they realize they are pioneers."

That's one thing about "The Big Red One" — it has always liked to be first.

Powell-Dean

Marriage Vows.
 Gary Dean and Nancy Powell exchanged marriage vows Sunday afternoon May 26 in an informal wedding at Mt. Nebo Church.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Powell and a 1955 graduate of Lewisville High School.

Gary is the son of Mrs. Ona Bell Dean of El Dorado, Arkansas. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue flocked nylon dress with white accessories. She carried a small white Bible with four pale pink rose buds tied with white net and satin ribbon.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Powell chose a blue dress with white accessories. Mrs. Dean wore a navy dress and also had white accessories.

The brides only attendant was her maid of honor, Dorothy Herndon. The best man was the brother of the bride, Ronald Powell.

Linda Herring played the wedding march as they came down the aisle. The flower girls were: Connie Arnold, Elaine Gilley, Sherry Burns and Pamela Powell.

A reception followed the wedding, where cake and punch was served to the many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Dean will make their home in El Dorado.

Mrs. Henry Burke
 Entertained
 Lilac Garden Club

The members of the Lilac Garden Club of DeAnn were entertained in the home of Mrs. Henry Burke with Mrs. Jewel Burke as co-hostess, Wednesday May 15 at 2 p.m. for their monthly meeting.

The Burke home was lovely with arrangements of spring flowers placed at vantage points throughout. Most outstanding was the dining table which held a very lovely miniature May-pole.

Mrs. Roy Burke, president, presided over a short business session, and welcomed the nine visitors. Mrs. Hollis Samuel read the minutes of the last meeting.

The program chairman, Mrs. Richard Arnold, presented the guest speaker, Mrs. LaRoy Spates of Hope who gave a most interesting and informative demonstration of the art of flower-arranging. Mrs. Spates selected Mrs. Richard Arnold's crescent arrangement of purple larkspur and pink roses as being the most perfect, had it been judged in flower show competition.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served a dainty salad plate with punch to those present.

Criticizes Operation of Two Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued operation of the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., and another service hospital was criticized by Rep. Ford (R-Mich) yesterday as gross extravagance.

Ford focused his sharpest criticism on Murphy General Hospital at Wallham, Mass.

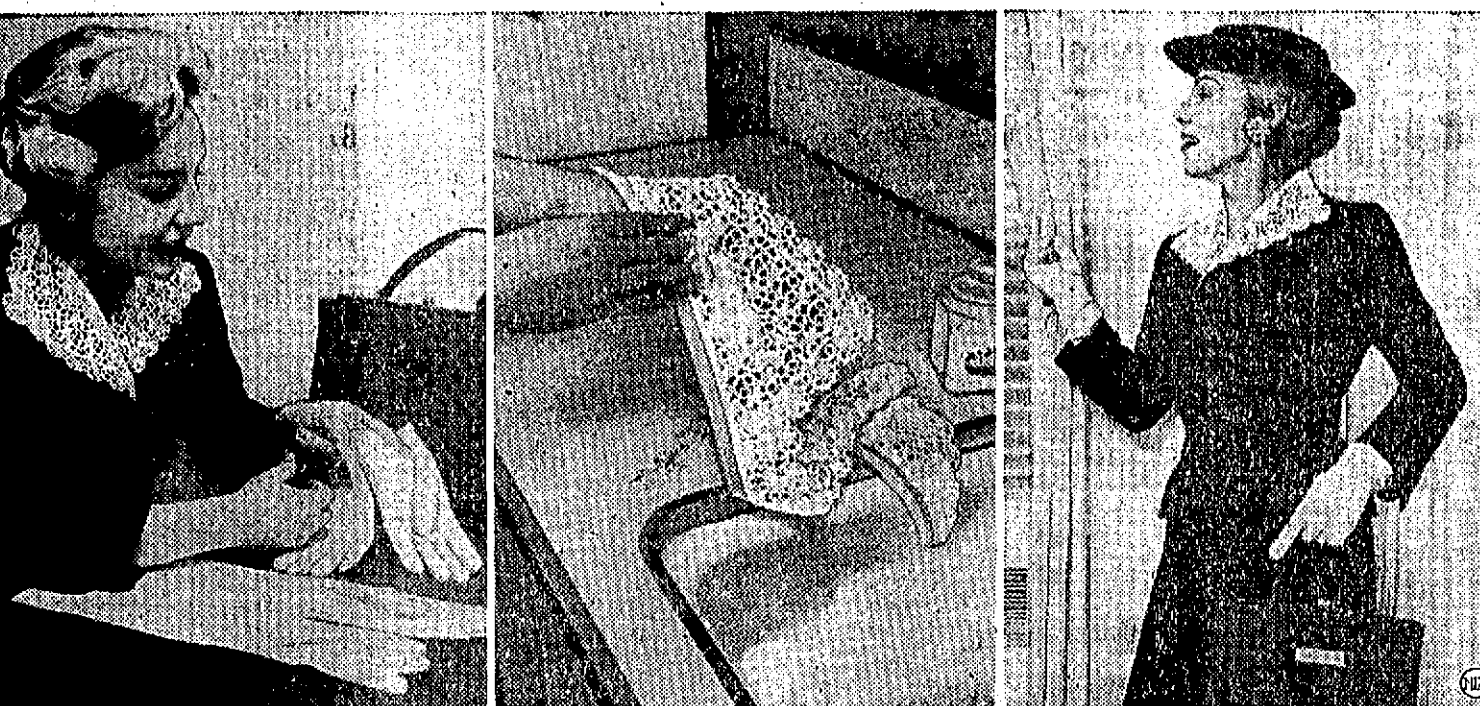

The Army wants to abandon both institutions but a defense appropriation bill now before the House provides that their operation continue for the next fiscal year.

Ford said on the floor that 1 million dollars could be saved in the next two years by closing the hospitals.

The foundation underneath a wedding gown has a great deal to do with the way the dress itself looks. This bride (left) wears a long line strapless bra that fits snugly through the bodice and figure but has very full, flaring skirt. Be sure to have your wedding dress (center) by Priscilla of Boston. Dress is smooth through bodice and hipline, flares out over net petticoats. The same bra-lette is worn (right) under a pretty cotton print by Anne Fogarty. Like the wedding dress, it's fitted close to the figure but has very full, flaring skirt. Be sure to have your foundation garment fitted well in advance.

There are pretty women at every age, women who know how to make the most of their assets. This mature woman looks lovely and knows that she does because she pays careful attention to all details of grooming. She likes to wear white gloves (left) and here, she snips the thread on a fresh pair that she'll carry in her handbag. Thus, she has a clean pair handy whenever she needs them during the day. She also likes delicate lace touches and she keeps them immaculate (center). She dissolves a small handful of sugar in the last rinse water to crisp the lace. With her costume (right), she wears large white earrings to set off her gray hair. She's attractive and she knows it. This, in turn, gives her a feeling of confidence.

College Boy Is Lonely,
 But Won't Join a Group

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a college sophomore of good intelligence and average looks. I've never been able to work up interest in music, dancing or swimming, and have always been extremely shy and lonely. I feel a nice girl could do more for me than anything else.

There is a certain girl I like, but every time I see her she's part of a mixed group. I feel I would be even lonelier in an un-congenial group.

SOLUS
 Dear Solus: To solve your problem, you've got to change your attitude. You won't mingle with people, yet hope to meet a girl. Where and how? To meet people, you certainly must go among them. I suppose you could make a door to door canvass asking, "Does a nice, unattached girl live here?"

Actually I think you're a bit of a snob, a condition that isn't rare among college sophomores. You expect all groups to be congenial. Be a joiner for one term. If you approach people with the right spirit, you won't be lonely for long.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I win a boy's love? He's 14 and I'm 12.

UNCERTAIN
 Dear Uncertain: You're a mile young to be worried about romantic problems. During your lifetime you'll run into some very real difficulties along that line. Don't rush them! Furthermore, I doubt if a 14-year-old boy has yearnings in that direction.

 Dear Dorothy Dix: Why doesn't the girl pay the expenses for the boy on a date?

A. P.
 Dear A. P.: That's a good question; unfortunately I don't have the answer. Man has always assumed the expenses of both date and marriage. I don't think the system is due to change for a long, long time, so I guess you'll just have to go along with custom.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I like a certain boy very much. I've only told three girls, but so far I know he's heard it from at least five people. If anyone else tells him he'll think

Film Ending Decision Up to Audience

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (M) — "Yes, that's just how it happened," said Jack Ford, who is technical adviser in the film, "The Lady Takes A Flyer," based on his own experiences.

Jeff Chandler and Lana Turner play a married couple who operate a plane delivery service, flying aircraft to all parts of the world. The conflict arises when she has a baby and decides she wants to settle down as a housewife. The picture ends with the issue left up to the audience.

With Jack Ford and his wife, the dispute ended in divorce. "We never had a fight," he declared. "We just split up over the one issue. She wanted to be a mother and make a home. I thought she should be a flyer. We couldn't resolve it, so she got a divorce two years ago."

Jack is a dark-haired, handsome pipe smoker who looks younger than his 39 years. He grew up in Los Angeles, where his father was superintendent of schools, with a passion for flying. He started flying in 1936 and flew in the service during the war.

With his wife, who had flown transatlantic deliveries during the war, he founded an aircraft delivery service. Their marriage went smoothly for a few years through they were often at opposite ends of the world.

Then the baby came. Mrs. Ford pined on the international gadding about and sought the home life. That's when their marriage ended.

Jack is still sold on the business. "If you like to get around and see places, this is the life," he said.

"For instance, we might have to send a crew to Toronto to make a plane delivery to Australia," he cited. "It would be too expensive to ship the crew right home again. So maybe they'd take a plane from Australia to Algiers. Then they might make a delivery to Italy and then to Denmark."

"It might be five months before they get home again. But I think of the places they have seen."

About 132,000 Canadian veterans of World War 2 still have not picked up re-establishment financial credits. Money unclaimed totals $22 million dollars.

SOMETHING BORROWED, SOMETHING BLEW—Bridesmaids come to the rescue as they try to control the veil and train of bride Rosemary Hamilton Grice, 21, as she enters London's Southgate Parish church with her father. The untimely windstorm wasn't exactly "cricket," but it didn't stop her wedding to sports writer Ross McWhirter.

CHAPTER XXXII

The freezer was cold. I started shivering almost the minute I was in it. The two wild boars were hanging from hooks in the middle of the room. Everything made me feel that they were the focal points. I went over to one of them and stuck my hand into the gaping wound.

It was almost too easy. Immediately my hand struck a package. I brought it out and unwrapped it. I was staring at a brown, gumlike mess. I lifted it to my face and sniffed. It had a sour, earthy smell something like rotten potatoes. Just to make sure, I squeezed off a small part of it and popped it into my mouth. It tasted bitter. I spit it out. There was no question about it. This was raw opium.

I rewrapped the package and put it back inside the carcass of the hog. I went to the door and opened it, peering outside. There was no one in sight. I was halfway to the house when I thought of something. There was a chance that someone had seen me and they would try to move the opium while I was down contacting Piero. I should have taken one package out and hidden it somewhere else so that there would be some evidence for the detectives to find.

It was such a good idea that I decided to go back and do it.

I had almost reached the freezer when I thought I heard a noise behind me, a hurried yet furtive sound. I started to turn.

My hand suddenly exploded with pain. It was sharp and intense, the pain that brings with it a sudden white light in the back of the eyes — and then blackness. I felt myself falling, but the darkness wiped even that out. And then there was nothing.

I came back to consciousness slowly. I was first aware of a sound, the steady, rhythmic murmur you hear in a sea shell. I shook my head, trying to shake some sense into it. Slowly I became aware that the sound was voices. The next thing that came to my senses was my head. It hurt with a pounding that threatened to drown out even the murmur of voices.

Next I realized that somebody was holding my head. My only complaint was that it wasn't being held gently enough. My head was a delicate thing at the moment. I didn't want anyone messing around with it.

I was afraid to open my eyes. In some way, I felt that my eyelids were fastened to the spot that hurt and it would be worse if I Please!

I opened my eyes with an effort. I was surprised to find it still light, the sun blazing down. I resented it. The way my head was hurting, I should have been out until at least midnight.

It hurt to move my eyeballs, but I rolled my eyes up to see who was giving me all that jazz. I got another surprise. It was Piero.

"Where did you come from, Piero?"

"Milo," he exclaimed, "you are alive. You are talking. You have come back from the dead."

"Who's dead?" I demanded indignantly. "There's nothing wrong with me."

"Good," Piero said, "Whop hit you?"

I groaned. "I'm dying," I said, "and you want to know who hit me. How should I know who hit me? He came up behind me."

I had looked around enough by this time to see that there were a lot of people standing not too far away, watching, I supposed. I lowered my voice. "Where'd you come from, Piero?"

He looked at me sadly. "You were supposed to come to the beach before three o'clock. You didn't come and already some of the guests were leaving. I came up to see why and found you here."

"Yes. No one else had looked around here. At least, they said that no one knew you were here."

"Somebody knew," I said bitterly. "I didn't hit myself."

"Who hit you?" he asked. "Was it him?"

"Who's him?" I asked, twisting my head to look in the direction Piero was indicating. Then I saw him. Riccardo Balena was lying on the ground not far from me. He was lying on his back, staring at the sky with unseeing eyes. His throat had been cut, and it gaped like a huge, lipsticked mouth.

"I don't know," I said. "But I didn't do that to him."

"Of course you didn't," he said. "You couldn't have cut a deck of cards, my friend. You are lucky your head wasn't crushed."

Memory was coming back to me. "Piero," I said, "where are your two men?"

"They are here. Why?"

"Send one of them into the freezer — I'm building there. There are two wild boars hanging from the ceiling. Inside them are packages of raw opium — lots of it. At least, they were there, before I was knocked out."

He called one of his men and gave him the order in a low voice. The man went over to the freezer and swung open the door. Out of the corner of my eye I saw one figure start to drift away from the crowd. I realized that it was Baron Gambero.

But Piero had seen the baron too. He snapped an order in Italian.

By twisting my head, I was able to see another man step forward quickly and stop the baron.

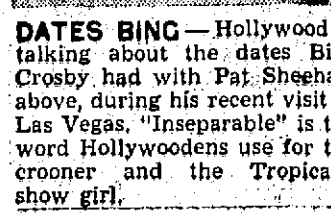

"Good boy," I said. (To Be Continued)

Youth Appeals in Child Bride Case

HOT SPRINGS (M) — The appeal of 17-year-old Harold Graves, who was fined in Municipal Court recently on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his 13-year-old wife, will be tried by briefs.

Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff Saturday set May 30 as the deadline for filing of briefs. Sap Anderson, attorney for the young couple, said he and Huff decided to try the appeal by briefs because "it's simply a question of law to be decided."

Mr. and Mrs. Graves were married in Greenville, Miss., on May 11. The bridegroom's parents and J. R. Spearman, father of the bride, were present at the wedding.

Municipal Judge M. C. Lewis later fined young Graves $50. He also fined Mr. and Mrs. Spearman $50 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Brennan Will Do a Series of TV Films

By CHARLES MERCES

NEW YORK (M) — Walter Brennan only actor ever to win an Academy Award three times, has been coaxed and badgered into doing a film series for television.

"Fella name of Pinkus talked me into it," he said. "Irving Pinkus. He's been at me two years. A real nice fella. We hit it off fine and we finally made this mild film. Everybody who's seen it likes it."

AHC-TV has bought the series and scheduled it to begin Oct. 3. It's called "The Real McCoy's and concerns a West Virginia family who inherit a California farm — or ranch, as they call it out there."

"I play Grandpa," said Brennan. "I've got a son named Luke and he's married to a girl I claim is too skinny a woman to be fittin' for farm work. And then there's little Luke and his sister, Hattie. I call her Tunt Hattie and I tell her she's goin' to be an old maid because here she is 11 years old already and ain't got a steady fella yet."

"I think this program is off-beat and has class. I don't like cheap stuff and we aim to see this isn't cheap. I hope I'm all right in it. I never do like myself much anyway. A funny thing, a lot of motion pictures I've been in never even went to see."

Brennan is 63, but nobody would believe it if he didn't say so. From seeing him in the movies I had thought he was on the scrawny side. He's not. He's tall and sturdy built and his skin is healthy and sun-burnished. His eyes are bright and penetrating and his grip is as powerful as a wood vise.

He owns a 12,000-acre cattle ranch near Joseph, Ore., which one of his sons runs for him. He has three children and nine grandchildren and a wife "who never once has given me a mite of trouble."

Union Dusting For Fire Ants

EL DORADO (UP) — Dusting operations in Union County were expected to be resumed today in a fight against the imported fire ant.

About 2,000 of the 12,000 infested acres were dusted before the weather halted operations. With fair weather forecast, farmers hoped to complete the job by Saturday.

The fire ant rendered the land unfit for farm use.

The insecticide purchase was financed partly by Gov. Orval E. Faubus from his emergency fund and partly by Union County farmers.

MODERN HORATIO ALGER

At a dinner in Chicago, Lou Zahn, 47, above, was among the winners of this year's Horatio Alger Awards, sponsored by the American Schools and Colleges Association.

Zahn, who began his career at the age of six as a door-to-door salesman—selling chewing gum—launched a wholesale drug business in the depression year of 1932 on borrowed capital of $225. Now the Louis Zahn Drug Co. grosses 10 million dollars a year.

Senate GOPs Snap Up an Opportunity

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (M) — Senate Republicans snapped up a triple-play opportunity today to support President Eisenhower, to stand for economy and to maneuver the Democrats toward a tight political corner.

A housing authorization bill, in the Democratic-controlled Banking Committee pumped Eisenhower's $1,025,000,000 budgetary request up to $2,850,000,000 offered GOP members a happy chance to display a kind of political unity with the White House notably lacking in the last few months.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California, who has called for a three-billion-dollar reduction in Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 spending budget, made it clear the GOP will take advantage of its three-fold opportunity.

"I regard this bill as a test of who is for economy and who is not," he said.

He said the position of Democrats who have advocated economy but who vote for an expanded and more costly housing program will be pointed out "at the proper time."

Most of the Democrats who faced this political dilemma didn't want to discuss it publicly. Some made it clear they hope compromises can be reached to avoid record roll call votes.

But Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), who wants to trim the authorization back to the figure Eisenhower requested, said those who support the enlarged program will be voting to nullify all economies Congress had made thus far.

There was some argument over this point. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) one of the sponsors of the bill, told his colleagues that the housing program has paid its way and possibly made a little profit over the last 20 years.

The pending bill is an omnibus measure authorizing direct Treasury expenditures for slum clearance and long-term loans for college, military and cooperative housing. It continues the insurance program on home mortgage loans.

Not all the Republicans were in favor of cutting the authorization back to the Eisenhower figure. But Knowland and others seemed confident a majority would welcome a chance to line up with the president without sacrificing their economy record.

"and just wait 'til you see inside... it's the prettiest car we've ever owned!"

ANNE: It certainly is beautiful... from any angle!

BETTY: But what I like best is the wonderful feeling I get when I'm driving. Heavenly comfort! And the things they're doing with colors and fabrics these days! Honestly, I feel just like a queen!

ANNE: You should! I'm not trying to pry, but I'll bet it cost a king's ransom.

BETTY: Wouldn't you be surprised! It cost a lot less than we expected. And, Ed says it will cost less in the long run, too, because an Olds holds its value.

ANNE: Leave it to you to have your cake and eat it, too!

BETTY: And why not? Ed, bless his practical streak, wanted an Olds for its extra value and the Rocket Engine, so, who am I to say "no" to the prettiest thing on wheels? You ought to pass the word along to John!

ANNE: You can say that again! I will tonight!

Rumors About National Loop Denied

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Directors of the National League, meeting today six weeks earlier than scheduled, were surrounded by a welter of rumors all of which were tagged by official denials.

One report was that a three-way switch of franchises was in prospect, shifting the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles, the New York Giants to San Francisco, and the Cincinnati Reds to New York.

Commissioner Ford Frick has put a gag on any public discussions by major league officials regarding franchise transfers. But this didn't prevent strong denials. "No request has been made by any club to move any franchise anywhere at any time," said Warren Giles, National League president.

General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati added: "I would not dignify such rumors by even commenting on them."

It was reported television and broadcast contracts for the three clubs in their new sites already had been approved.

To this, Paul replied: "If this is true someone besides Mr. Crosley (Powell Crosley, Jr., president of the Reds) and myself must have signed for the Reds. And only we two are authorized to sign such agreements."

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, said that he knew "absolutely nothing" about such transfer reports.

Eddie O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, said "I'm not going to get involved in any spring time romancing."

Although possible franchise changes are not on the agenda, Giles said that if any club wishes to bring up such a switch it could be considered if all other teams were willing to discuss it.

He added that if any such changes were suggested and approved by the necessary eight clubs, there still would remain the formality of drafting the needed territory, a procedure which league rules permit only during the month of October.

NAIA Baseball Playoffs June 5

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — Four teams have been certified and four more are due this week for the NAIA baseball tournament, scheduled here June 5, 6 and 7.

Rollins College, of Winter Park, Fla., College of the Ozarks, southwestern state of Oklahoma and host Sul Ross already are in the field.

East Carolina State has asked for a place in the tournament and appears certain to get it while Central Washington State is expected to be named Friday. Washburn of Topeka, Kan., will be in the tournament if it wins a regional playoff and the winner of a 3-state regional tournament in Nebraska will be the eighth team.

Oklahoma State Joins Big 7 Meetings

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State University will officially join the Big Seven Conference June 4, a conference committee decided here yesterday.

Dean Earl Sneed of Oklahoma, head of the committee, said OSU, formerly Oklahoma A&M College, will be in full participation in the Big Seven by 1938 and possibly not later than 1939.

Others on the committee were Reaves Peters, Kansas City, executive director, and Arthur (Dutch) Lomborg, of the University of Kansas.

Next year, OSU will compete officially in all sports with the exception of football and basketball. The school is expected to enter basketball conference play in the 1938-39 season Sneed said.

Until Oklahoma State starts playing a full Big Seven schedule, Peters said it would be a member at large.

Redlegs Show Braves About a Powder Keg

By FRED DOWN

The Cincinnati Redlegs demonstrated first hand to the Milwaukee Braves today what it's like to have a powder keg go off under them.

Beaten six straight times by the Braves and held to a team batting mark of .238 by Milwaukee pitchers early in the season, the Redlegs turned in their tormenters last night with an 11-6, 10-inning victory that ran their string of consecutive victories on the road to 15. Birdie Tebbets' team now is only two games shy of the major league mark of 17 straight wins on the road set by the 1916 New York Giants.

The Redlegs beat a latoo of 13 singles off three Milwaukee pitchers to score only two fewer runs in one game than they tallied in the six previous contests this season. In the bargain, they knocked the Braves three and a half games out of first place and maintained their two-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1. The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-2, in the other N. L. game.

The New York Yankees moved to within two games of the American League lead when they walloped the Boston Red Sox, 7-8, and the Kansas City A's beat the first-place Chicago White Sox, 7-1. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 11-5, and the Washington Senators scored 3-2 and 10-6 victories over the Baltimore Orioles in other A. L. activity.

The Red Legs picked up a 5-1 lead against "Jinx" pitcher Lew Burdette but the Braves tied the score at 6-6 with the aid of two-run homers by Hank Aaron and Del Crandall in the eighth and ninth innings. But the Redlegs batted around in a wild 10th inning marked by a fist-fight between Cincinnati's Hal Jeffcoat and Milwaukee's Johnny Logan to clinch the contest.

Herb Freeman, third of four Cincinnati pitchers, was credited with his second win while Erle Johnson suffered the loss. Burdette, who had a string of nine straight victories over the Redlegs, was taken off the hook by his teammates' late rallies. The Redlegs, who dropped their first three road games, have a 5-3 mark away from home.

Don Drysdale, 20-year-old right-hander, fumbled a two-hitter and Duke Snider and Gino Cipola homered off Robin Roberts as the Dodgers made it nine wins in their last 12 games. Drysdale fanned six and retired the last 10 batters to face him to win his fourth game. Roberts, who has yielded 14 homers this season, now has a 3-6 record.

Stan Musial smashed three hits, including the 361st homer of his career, and knocked in two runs to raise the lifetime total to 1500, as he led the Cardinals' nine-hit attack. Musial tied Joe DiMaggio for seventh place in career homers and is the 3th man to drive in 3500 runs. Lindy McDaniel scattered 10 hits to win his third decision and Wally Moon hit safely in his 20th straight game to make it a gala night all-around for St. Louis.

The Yankees collected 13 hits good for 22 bases in matching the A. L.'s single-game high for runs scored this year in an assault highlighted by an eight-run rally in the seventh and a five-run burst in the eighth. Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Hank Bauer had three doubles and Tony Kubek had a double and a single for New York.

Alex Kellner hurled a seven-hit no-hit victory and hand the White Sox their second straight

Fight Follows Dispute, Two Killed, 6 Hurt

GUNTERVILLE, Ark. (AP) — It was quiet today around a construction project where gunfire killed two men and wounded six others.

The shooting yesterday resulted in a $250,000 damage suit filed in Marshall Circuit Court here against United Mine Workers, District 50.

The court action was filed by Gulf States Construction Co. Inc., of Atlanta, whose workers clashed with UMW pickets at a plant being constructed for the Cotton Producers Association.

Gulf States also was granted a temporary injunction against a mass picketing at the plant.

The suit named James L. Ledbetter and Ed Payton, UMW representatives as the chief defendants. Ledbetter and Payton could not be reached immediately for comment.

The suit charged the UMW with conspiring to violate the laws, and to prevent Gulf States from working at the plant "by use of violence, threats, intimidation, mass picketing and the shooting of the plaintiff's work superintendent and the murder of one workman."

State, county and city officers were investigating the shooting that killed 22-year-old John L. Roy Ward of Parsons, Kan., and the Rev. William Clinton Harrison also 22, an itinerant minister who was in the picket line.

Five persons are being held in Marshall County Jail. Ed Boner, a union organizer, has been charged with carrying a concealed weapon. The others are being held without charge pending further investigation.

Pikes, pistols and dynamite were seized.

Most seriously wounded in the shooting at the plant was Russell William Smith, 52, an official of the construction company.

Others hospitalized were Glenn Mathis, Parsons, Kan.; William Humphrey, Kowa, Kan.; superintendent of construction and Theodore Leon Doyle, 28, Greenville, Miss. Two others were less seriously hurt.

Although Gaelic is the accustomed language of Scotland and Ireland, it is also a familiar language on Canada's Cape Breton.

defeat. Lou Skizas knocked in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to help send Jim Wilson to his second loss. Jim Rivera's triple and Bubba Phillips' single produced Chicago's run in the seventh.

Three walks and three hits enabled the Tigers to score four runs with two out in the seventh inning after Vic Wertz' second homer of the game tied the score for Cleveland at 5-5. Paul Foylack, who singled hope two runs in the rally, won his fourth game while Early Wynn, third Indian pitcher, was charged with his fifth loss.

Jim Lemon homered in the 11th inning as the Senators won a game suspended since April 21 and the tall outfielder drove in four runs to spark a 10-hit attack in the regularly-scheduled night game. Bob Usher had four hits for Senators in the "second" game.
